Dear Mr. Scott,

RE: The Red Guide to Recovery

The California Fire Chiefs Association recommends the Red Guide to Recovery, a comprehensive resource that provides up-to-date information to those who face the daunting task of planning for the unpredictable or recovering from destructive events. When a disaster strikes, many people do not know where to turn or are so overwhelmed, they do not know where to start. In many instances, it is local emergency situations where this valuable information would be beneficial.

The Guide provides individuals, in a simple, straightforward handbook; information they need to be self-sufficient, well-prepared, knowledgeable, and safer when disaster strikes. The information provided allows readers to prepare for situations they may, or may not, have anticipated before or following a fire or destructive event. Having this useful information at their fingertips can help them maneuver more easily through the difficult, and often times emotional, recovery process. Trying to pick up the pieces following a disaster, this tool offers an invaluable amount of information that can aid them along the way.

The Red Guide to Recovery is the ultimate resource for all individuals, providing them with easy steps to put their lives back together. California Fire Chiefs Association supports the distribution of the Guide to citizens that will ultimately improve outcomes and greatly enhance preparedness in communities throughout the state.

Sincerely,
